Step-by-step instructions

1

When I start drawing a mandala I take the materials I need: paper, fineliners (STAEDTLER of course), a pencil, a ruler, an eraser, a compass and a protractor. I find the middle of the paper and put a little point in it with the compass. I draw the circle as big as I want the mandala to become. Then I make a straight line with a ruler and with the protractor I make points in various degrees. With the ruler I connect the points.

2

Now it's time to draw the basic outlines. On this picture you can see the start of it.

3

Finished the basic lines. While drawing I made new circles and when necessary I draw more lines with the pencil.

4

Here you can see that I started to fill the basic drawing with different patterns.

5

Finished.....

When all the fields are filled with patterns, I erase the pencil lines and the mandala is ready! Ready for colouring or whatever...
